SENATE EFFORT TO RUSH ACTION ON TAX REVISION MEASURE FAILS

Small Prospects For Final Vote Before Middle Of Week — Two Amendments Are Disposed Of

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(Republican A. P. Leased Wire) Behind the tax revision bill passed last week, the senate after it had been apparent that there was small prospect of a final vote before the middle of next week.

Negotiations were carried on between the majority and the minority looking to an agreement for a day for the final vote. Later, the Democratic leaders estimated that the bill might be passed by Wednesday or Thursday. Some senators on the majority side through the vote would come by Tuesday while there were other estimates that it might be delayed until Saturday.

"We have now broken the back of the movement to force through this bill without proper consideration," Senator Simmons of North Carolina, Democrat.

Only two amendments were disposed of today. Under one change adopted on motion of Senator Reed, Missouri, income tax returns would be open to inspection by direction of either house of congress. Under existing law they are opened for inspection only on orders of the president.

Senator Reed today launched his fight for the soldiers' bonus, which he has proposed shall be paid out of funds obtained by continuing the excess profits tax. He declared his amendment was designed to "pay the bonus from the profits of the war profiteers."

"I am only taking the funds," he said, "turning to the Republicans."

Reading the message of President Harding and the letter of Secretary Mellon opposing the bonus at present, Senator Reed charged that it was the Republican plan to kill the bonus bill.

Nearly three hours of the session was consumed in a fight against an amendment offered by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, proposing exemption from taxation the income derived from business done in China by American corporations, 50 percent of whose gross income comes from that country and 50 percent of whose business is done there.

The amendment finally was passed over as was that proposing retention of the capital stock tax, which the finance commission proposed to repeal next January first.

Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, presented an amendment to continue the present 10 per cent income tax rate on corporations, and Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, offered a new schedule of estate tax rates, beginning at 1 per cent on all that part of an estate over $50,000 and graduating up to 50 per cent on 1 over $200,000.

A tax of 1.000 per cent on political campaign contributions over $100 was proposed in an amendment by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia. The rate would apply to presidential and congressional candidates.

Texas Trainmen And Executives To Confer Today

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 29.—Inquiries as to the number of striking trainmen and the situation at the Great Northern railroad who have returned to work and as to whether the roads had adopted the open shop policy with reference to the trainmen's department, were met at division offices tonight with the statement "that the road is able to handle all business offered." Continued improvement in the movement of freight was reported. The road's embargo on freight placed soon after the 500 trainmen walked out last Saturday was in effect less than a week. The original restrictions, considerably loosened Wednesday, were removed today.

RESUME SEARCH FOR MAN WANTED FOR MURDER OF DAKOTA PRIEST

Believe Miner On Way To Montana—Entire Town Turns Out For Funeral Of Murder Victim

LEAD, S. D., Oct. 29.—Active search for Andrew Rolando, wanted in connection with the death here Wednesday of Father A. B. Belknap, pastor of St. Patrick's cathedral, was resumed today following the funeral of the priest.

Officers in automobiles left Lead today in the second expedition of the day in an effort to locate the miner, whose case still remained in the Black Hills country. Officials expressed the belief, however, that he still was on his way to Butte, Mont., beating his way on freight trains. They said it had been virtually established that he had been in Edgemont. Several reports that he had been seen in western South Dakota and Wyoming, however, lacked verification.

The funeral of Father Belknap was observed by a cessation of business the entire city halting to pay tribute to the man who died while on an errand of mercy. Bishop J. J. Lawler, who officiated at solemn high requiem mass, denounced the slaying of Father Belknap as "a dastardly deed which challenges the community and the whole priesthood."

Tonight the priest's body was being taken to Dubuque, Iowa, for burial. Following the funeral, James L. Curran, district deputy of the Knights of Columbus, issued a statement in which he expressed the opinion that the slaying of the priest was not, in the opinion of church authorities, due to local religious feelings. "We are of the opinion that the death of Father Belknap was due to personal motives and that religious feeling did not enter into it," he said.

Police Chief J. D. O'Meara said he believed robbery was the motive of the alleged crime, declaring the man eventually wanted to steal the priest's car.

On behalf of the Knights of Columbus, and with the approval of the Catholic church authorities here, James L. Curran, district deputy of the Knights of Columbus today issued a statement to the effect that he believed robbery was the motive of the crime, declaring the man eventually wanted to steal the priest's car.

Curran's statement follows: "For fear the impression might prevail in some places that the death of Father A. B. Belknap may be the result of local religious antagonism, I wish to say that it is the opinion of Catholics generally here and of Protestants as well, that such is not the case."

"Since Bishop J. J. Lawler took charge of the diocese of Lead, five years ago, the relations between Catholics and non-Catholics have been increasingly pleasant. There is no sentiment here against Protestants or any other denomination and there is no antagonism to Catholics among Protestants."

"We are of the opinion that the death of Father Belknap was due to personal motives of the slayer and that religious feeling did not enter into it. For the nobility feeling that exists between the sects and denominations here we give a full share of the credit to Bishop Lawler, whose efforts sought to promote such feeling."

ROLANDO LIVED IN ILLINOIS. HARRIS, Ill., Oct. 29.—A man bearing the same name as the suspect sought in connection with the death of Rev. Belknap, pastor of St. Patrick's cathedral of Lead, S. D., was nearly lived here, according to Chief of Police M. M. Walker of this city, but has not been seen here for two years.

The only record local police have of a minor named Andrew Rolando is furnished by a trial on a charge of drunkenness, the chief said.

Whether this Andrew Rolando is the same man wanted in Lead, S. D., Chief Walker was unable to say. He described him as being about 5 feet 5 inches tall, of rather heavy set build, and being dark complexioned.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 29.—Between thirty-five and fifty lives were lost and property damage of several millions of dollars tonight was the estimated toll of floods that swept away part of several towns north and east of here last night and today.

The most damage was at Britannia Beach, a mining village with a population of 350, eighteen miles north of Vancouver. There last night a cloudburst broke through a fill and released a torrent which rushed down to the ocean, carrying about half the houses in the town. Late in the afternoon meagre advices placed the number of dead and missing at 35. A ship bearing medical aid has gone from Vancouver. A portion of Port Coquitlam, fourteen miles east of Vancouver, was destroyed by flood waters of the Coquitlam river. Several buildings were floating down the river. No mention was made of casualties in reports from this district, but fourteen families were said to be marooned. Communication with the stricken area was impossible except by boat.

The Canadian Pacific railway reported extensive damage to its property. Several bridges and miles of track were washed away on the main line paralyzing transcontinental traffic. ### RAILWAY LABOR BOARD FORBIDS FUTURE STRIKES

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—The United States railroad labor board today, in effect, forbade railroad union labor from striking without the board's permission and declared that all strikers who violated the order would be charged as outlaws who had voluntarily removed themselves from the protection of the transportation act.

The labor board, after detailing the decision of both sides to abide by the law, says "these facts render it unnecessary for the board to make any further orders on or about this matter and move it to concentrate the parties directly interested, and the public, most vitally and profoundly interested, on this return to industrial peace, triumph of the right and the escape from this national disaster."

"But at this time, the board deems it expedient and proper to make its rulings and position on some of the points involved so clear that no grounds for any misunderstanding can hereafter exist."

"First, changes in wages, contracts or rules previously in effect are contemplated or proposed by either party, conference must be had as directed by the transportation act and by rules or decisions of procedure promulgated by the board, and where agreements are not reached, the dispute must be brought before this board and no action taken or change made until authorized by the board."

"Second, the ordering or authorizing of a strike against decision number 14 of the board is prohibited. This is a violation of the transportation act and by rules or decisions of procedure promulgated by the board, and where agreements are not reached, the dispute must be brought before this board and no action taken or change made until authorized by the board."

"The board further points out for the consideration of the employers and strikers that when such action does result in a strike the organ so acting has forfeited its rights and the provisions and benefits of all contracts theretofore existing, and the employees so striking have voluntarily removed themselves from the classes entitled to appeal to this board for relief and protection."

Physiology Will Form Basis For Arbuckle's Case

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—The defense of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, film actor charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, in an article on the physiology, according to a statement of Charles H. Brennan of San Francisco, Arbuckle's attorney, today.

The defense will contend that Miss Rappe at the time of her death suffered from a malady that had been pronounced permanent and chronic at least eight years ago, he said.

"Nothing will be done by the defense that can be construed as an attack on the character of Virginia Rappe," he said. "The matter will be handled from the physiological standpoint."

Brennan if here to examine three Chicago witnesses, Dr. Maurice Rosenberg, who attended Miss Rappe during an illness, and Mrs. Josephine Roth and Mrs. Virginia Warren, nurses. Brennan will go to New York Tuesday to take the deposition of Lowell Sherman, actor, who was present at a party staged by Arbuckle at which Miss Rappe became ill.

M., to Las Cruces to take steps to protect his interests.

Morten, a bachelor, was found dead at Roswell, N. M., last Wednesday morning. Indications were that he had been murdered. Tesuque, where Bode has been residing, is a small town with a telephone communication, and it was several days before he learned of his uncle's death.

It was estimated that Morten's estate would amount to $1,000,000. Bode, according to Bode, who claims to be familiar with his uncle's affairs, is a well-to-do man. He has been in addition to Bode, it has been learned that a sister of Morten resided in Germany.

FEDERAL JUDGE ORDERS MINERS' ORGANIZERS TO CEASE EFFORTS

JUDGE ANDERSON WILL ISSUE INJUNCTION TOMORROW; CHECK OFF SYSTEM ON CLOSED SHOP ALSO DECLARED UNLAWFUL; ORDER BINDING THROUGHOUT COUNTRY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 29.—Refusal to cease efforts to unionize the Williamson coal field, of West Virginia, made late today in federal court by President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, was followed by a statement from Judge A. B. Anderson that on Monday he will issue an injunction to accomplish that purpose.

No statement was made by the judge as to the scope of the order, but the decision to issue came after a hearing for a temporary order on the ground that union officials and operators in organized coal fields are engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to check interstate competition in the coal market from the non-union West Virginia field, centering around Mingo county, the storm center of a strike for more than a year.

In a statement of his view on the evidence presented Judge Anderson declared his belief that a combination of coal shipped in interstate commerce from West Virginia and therefore it was a conspiracy to interfere with interstate commerce. I think there is sufficient ground here to find, and I am compelled to find, that the effort to unionize the West Virginia mines is an effort to monopolize the coal shipped in interstate commerce. I think that under the facts and circumstances here that the check-off system is unlawful and used for an unlawful purpose."

In the verified complaint submitted as a part of the evidence, it was disclosed a conspiracy to exclude the West Virginia coal from the markets. The defense, however, declared it a "check-off" system, and that these excerpts do not fully disclose the facts. Further, the union officials denied any acts of conspiracy, asserting their only purpose was to improve wages and working conditions.

The defense of the operators also made by affidavits was that they had sought to discard the check-off but had been compelled through the Washington wage agreement and the bituminous coal commission that granted the wage award following the 1919 coal strike to maintain this system. The Washington agreement, it was claimed, "was made with the sanction and approval of the United States fuel administration," and the government became a party to the agreement.

While Mr. Lewis and his counsel were out of the courtroom, the attorneys for Indiana coal operators sought to learn from Judge Anderson whether they should discontinue the check off and the court answered: "I say you continue it at your own peril." The operators' attorneys said they feared a strike if they stopped the check off.

Any order issued, Judge Anderson indicated, would be binding on all operators and union men through the country. The judge said he intended to make all Indiana operators defendants, the judge said.

"In my judgment all operators throughout the United States should be here and he added that with two Indiana residents, who are members of the union executive board and defendant, the President, Lewis, would be in court. During the defense presentation of affidavits, largely a general denial of all charges made against the union in affidavits of the complainant's counsel, sought to forestall a temporary injunction by submitting statements that the strike zone is now more quiet than at any time within the last year. Judge Anderson agreed that "enough evidence has been introduced to justify a temporary injunction in the case, and declared he was unwilling to rush the case to a decision saying it was "too important."

Apparently court and counsel would agree to continue the delay in the case, and the court would permit the filing of an amended suit increasing the number of defendants, permit thirty days time for filing of an answer by the defense and then permit the case to come to trial in the regular order. In outlining this procedure, Judge Anderson said:
